THE 1964 HI-LITE
VOLUME NINE
PUBLISHED BY
THE SENIOR CLASS
OF
NEW RIEGEL HIGH SCHOOL
NEW RIEGEL, OHIO

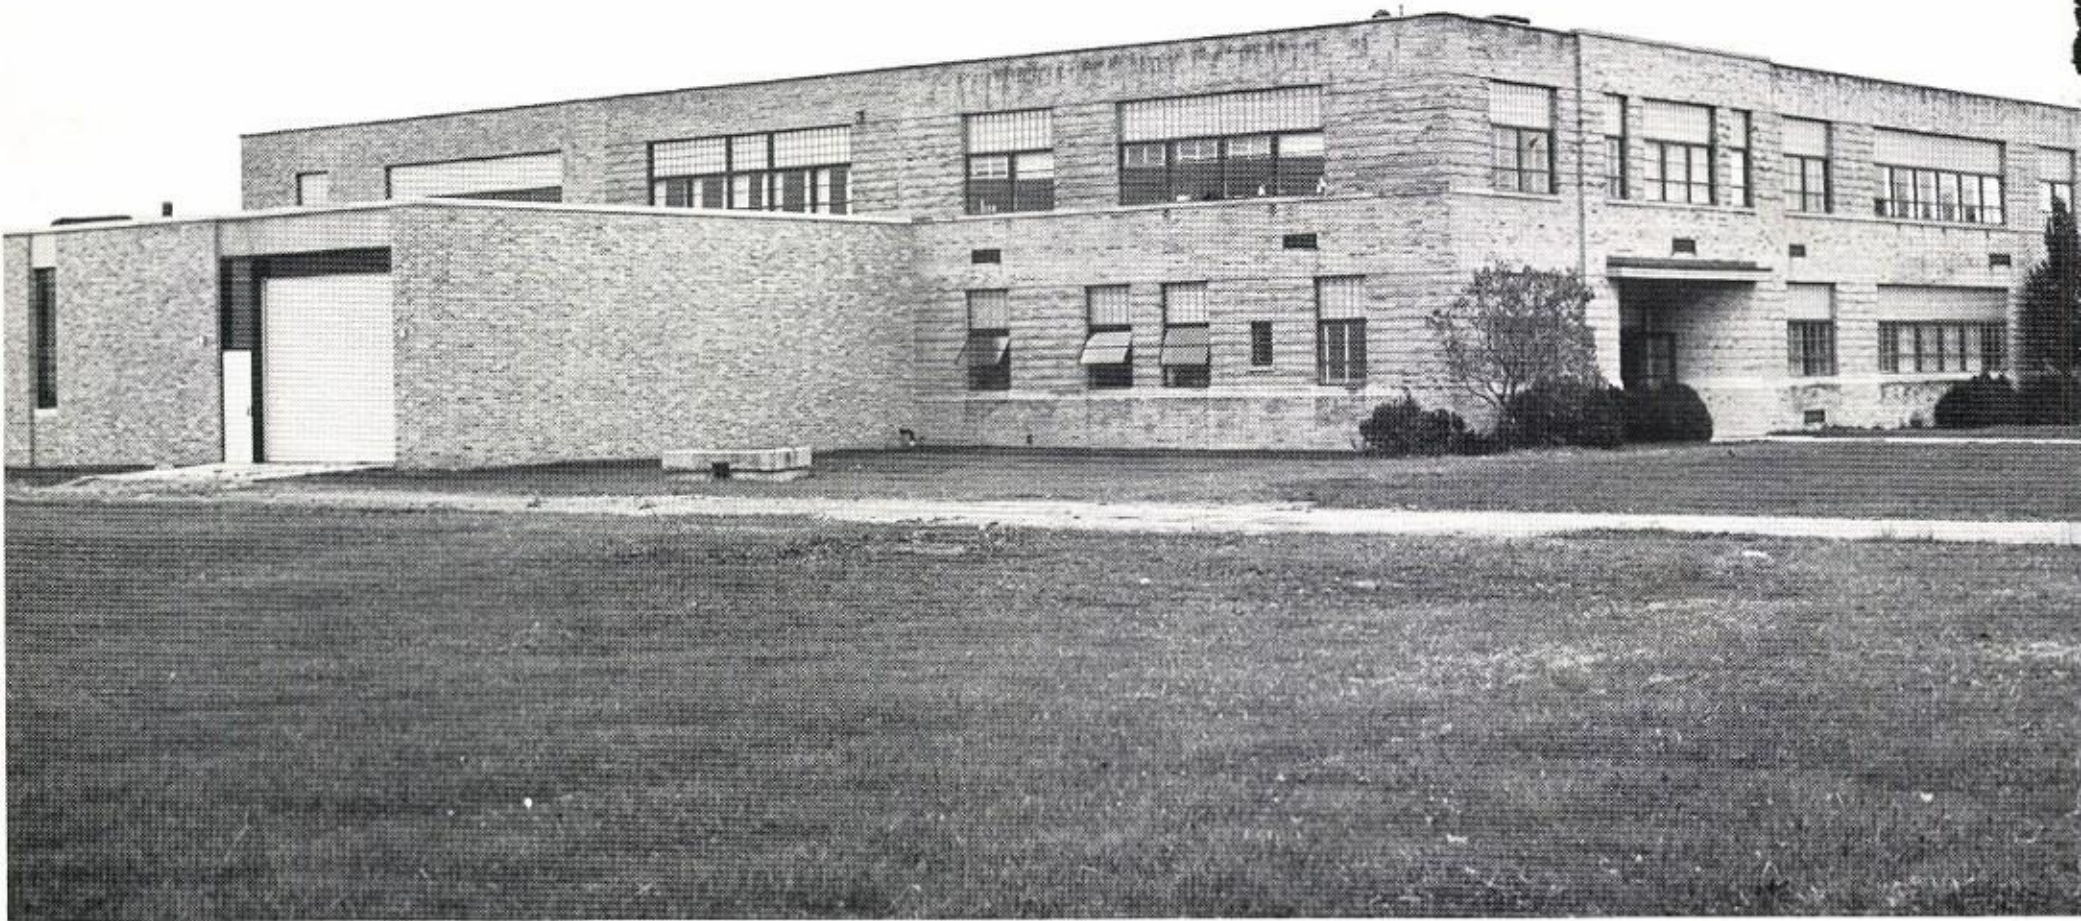

PRESENTATION

We extend our appreciation to our advisor, Mrs. Geissman; to the other members of the faculty, both high school and elementary; to the underclassmen who assisted us in editing this yearbook; to you who purchased a book. Without the cooperation of the many advertising agencies, we could not have been successful. To these and all others who aided us in any way whatsoever, we say a sincere "THANK YOU."

I AM EDUCATION

I am EDUCATION. I bear the torch that enlightens the world, fires the imagination of man and feeds the flames of genius. I give wings to dreams and might to brawn and brain. From out the silent shadows of the past I come, wearing the scars of struggle and the stripes of soil, but bearing in triumph the wisdom of all the ages. Man, because of me, holds dominion over earth, air and sea; it is for him I leash the lightning, plumb the deep and shackle the waves of ether. I am the parent of progress, the creator of culture and the molder of destiny. Philosophy, science and art are my handy works. I banish ignorance, discourage vice, and disarm anarchy. Thus have I become freedom's citadel, the arm of democracy, the hope of youth, the pride of adolescence, the joy of age. Fortunate the nations and happy the homes that welcome me. The school is my workshop; here I stir ambitions, stimulate ideals, forge the keys that open the door to opportunity, become the master of human destiny. I am the source of inspiration, the aid of aspiration, for I am Irresistible Power.

FORWARD

The 1964 Hi-Lite Staff of New Riegel High School has worked diligently to present a pictorial and verbal account of the familiar scenes and many memorable events which made up this school year.

These pages portray the challenge of countless hours of study, together with plenty of fun, resulting in intellectual growth and the fulfillment of dreams.

To all students of New Riegel Schools, we hope this book will aid you as you travel memory's lane with us through a wonderful year; a year when the school became the place of our guidance "For a future in a competitive world of scientific wonders, progressive changes, and notable achievements."

It is our sincere hope that in years to come, we may look back upon our experiences and find that our efforts have not been in vain.

PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY

JOHN F. KENNEDY MEMORIAL

May 29, 1917 - November 22, 1963

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."

How well Longfellow's thoughts of years past denote the memories associated with John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the 35th president of the United States. This man was gifted by God far beyond the ordinary man. He had faith, education with a cum laude from Harvard, intelligence, culture, personal Irish Charm, self-confidence, wisdom, breadth of vision, human understanding enabling him to report for International News Service. The bounce with which he walked denoted energy.

To him was given the ability to make decisions quickly. Courageously, he gave of his loyalty to his country and to his God. The President had a number of loves: his Jacqueline, Caroline, and John Junior brought out his best as a family man; reading; writing, PROFILE IN COURAGE gave him the Pulitzer Prize; the beautiful, he was proud of his flower gardens; the sea, where he could sail and swim, and race sailboats--for four years he served in the Navy; wealth; humor; politics, where he loved to win and he did. He went from House to Senate to White House and he loved the power which accompanied his position. He regarded his power as an opportunity which permitted him to solve or attempt to solve every problem.

His goals were many. When introducing his first legislation, he stated one of his aims, "To care for the ills of age; the troubles of youth; the hopelessness of the unskilled, the humiliation of the darker citizens." He had launched out on a paramount moral and social problem, Negro equality. His unfulfilled promise remains a fitting memorial. It has been suggested that the old equality tradition be realized as a final and fitting memorial, in preference to the erection of an expensive statue. In his inaugural he voiced another aim, "A new world of law, where the strong are just, and the weak secure, and the peace is preserved." There is no doubt that his courage in the Cuban missile situation had a direct bearing on the world's history.

Attesting to this fact were the 220 leaders of foreign nations who paid tribute at Arlington, along with the 250,000 Americans who filed through the Rotunda as the President's remains lay in repose. Everyone is sad that he is dead. If some good may come from this tragic evil, if there may come to our nation a new unity and strength, then our sorrow may create a new regard for spiritual values and a grander resolution to be worthy of, and true to them.

Mr. Kennedy was a man of many talents; each phase of his life as student, serviceman, author, politician, was combined to portray the courage of the present with the hope of the future. On the eve of his election he said, "The chief responsibility of the president is to set before the American people the unfinished business of our country." Since he is no longer able to continue, let all people carry on for him; as he so aptly stated in his inaugural address, "The torch has been passed to a new generation," let America carry it well.

IN APPRECIATION

MR. SAMUEL E. MARTIN

The faculty of the New Riegel Schools was host for the Seneca County Teachers' Association meeting which was held in the high school building February 13, 1964. The occasion honored Mr. Samuel E. Martin for his twenty-five years of service as county superintendent of schools.

Following an address by Dr. Roma Gans, a professor at the University of Southern Illinois, a delicious dinner was served by the newly formed, NORTHWEST CATERING SERVICE with its chefs, waiters and waitresses in uniforms.

On behalf of the group, a monetary gift was presented to Mr. Martin, who expressed his thanks for a very enjoyable evening.

THE CLASS OF 1964

At the present moment the most fascinating subject of your thoughts is the future. What will it be? You have striven to prepare yourselves for the duties and obligations that may await you. How well you have succeeded the years alone can tell. Whatever problems shall puzzle you, whatever difficulties confront you, may you always have the courage of your convictions and the faith in yourselves that is so essential if you are to do as well as dream. May you remain true to your ideals and make the world a better place for your having lived in it. Here's to your future. May it be as bright as you deserve.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Seniors, you will live in a fast changing world. A world where probably you will witness more change in your life span than the change that has occurred from the time of Christ up to your birth.

For those of you who have equipped yourselves with the proper virtues, attitudes, abilities, skills and education, this changing world will be challenging and stimulating, but yet conquerable! For those of you who fail to acquire the qualities necessary for tomorrow's citizen, you will find that the world will be frustrating and disappointing.

It is my hope and prayer that you will use your God-given talents to prepare for and to live in your dynamic world. If you use your talents to the fullest extent possible you will have the "whole wide world in your hands"; if you do not, you will surely fumble and falter.

Finally, it is my belief that your eternal reward depends upon the manner and the extent to which you meet the responsibilities required of you in your fast changing world.

THE CLAY IS EVERYWHERE

By Charles B. Roth

One day not long ago I stood in front of the marvelous Lorado Taft statuary group in the Chicago Art Institute, a group of lovely human figures that had arisen boldly out of a block of solid marble, part of which still encased them.

And I thought that once this block was a shapeless mass of marble. Now it was a masterpiece of shape and beauty.

And I thought of the reply of another sculptor who, when asked how he managed to create masterpieces, replied simply, "The clay is everywhere--all I need is time."

And then the further thought came: This is the case of every teacher. Around her every day is the "Clay" of human greatness; the boys and girls whose lives are entrusted to her.

What will she make of them? Will they become great scholars, leaders, artists? Some unquestionably will but, let us face it, more will not.

But because of her teaching and her training of them, they can all become greater than if it were not for her.

Thus, to me the challenge of teaching becomes greater than the challenge of a block of marble to a sculptor. He deals with insensate things. The teacher deals with sensate human beings each with infinite possibilities to become a masterpiece of living.

I do not suppose that the sculptor Taft, laying aside his chisel at the completion of his masterpiece, stepping away from it a little way, regarding it partly with criticism but mostly with the affection that comes from long association; took more satisfaction in his creation than a teacher, watching her class leave her for the last time, knowing that into each life something finer has been built than the lines on a marble statue.

The New Riegel Parent-Teachers' Association sponsored two dances this year to raise money. They contributed the paint--75 gallons of it--to paint four class rooms in the high school building. The cost was approximately $370. Twenty-five people volunteered their services to do the painting project. The beautiful colored walls are much more conducive to study than were the drab grey concrete blocks.

The PTA also sponsored a Senior Recognition Night on April 25, when they presented awards to the senior class members. The organization helped pay the expenses to send two girls to Girls' State and two boys to Boys' State.

After doing all of this for the school, they still have some funds available, and they are planning to make further contributions to the school. The faculty and students say, "Thank you."

MYSELF

"I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know,
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye,
I don't want to stand with the setting sun,
And hate myself for things I have done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself, as I come and go,
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a man I really am;
I don't want to dress myself up in a sham.

I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men's respect;
But here in the struggle for fame and pelf,
I want to be able to like myself,
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others may never see;
I know what others may never know;
I never can fool myself, and so,
What ever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience-free."

WHAT IS A TEACHER

(This article written by Miss Butler was read into the Congressional Record by a member of the United States House of Representatives.)

Between the innocence of infancy and the dignity of maturity, our children fall under the influence of a group of people called teachers.

Teachers come in assorted sizes, weights, and colors. They have various interests, hobbies, religions, and beliefs; but they share one creed: To help each child to reach the highest possible degree of personal development.

The teacher is a composite. A teacher must have the energy of a harnessed volcano, the efficiency of an adding machine, the memory of an elephant, the understanding of a psychiatrist, the wisdom of Solomon, the tenacity of a spider, the patience of a turtle trying to cross the freeway in rush-hour traffic, the decisiveness of a general, the diplomacy of an ambassador, and the financial acumen of a Wall Street wizard. She must remember always that she teaches by word but mostly by precept and example.

A teacher may possess beauty, or grace, or skill; but most certainly she must possess love--a deep abiding love of, and respect for, children individually and en masse. She must love your little girl who has the song of a bird, the squeal of a pig, the stubbornness of a mule, the antics of a monkey, the spryness of a grasshopper, the curiosity of a cat, the slyness of a fox, and the mysterious mind of a woman.

She must also cherish your little boy who is inconsiderate; bothersome; an intruding bundle of noise with the appetite of a horse, the digestion of a sword swallower, the energy of an atom bomb, the lungs of a dictator, the imagination of Paul Bunyan, the shyness of a violet, the audacity of a steel trap, and the enthusiasm of a firecracker.

A teacher must teach many things: reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, geography, history, music, art, health. She must also manage during her 6 1/2 hours to teach manners and morals to children whose parents have despaired of the task during their 17 1/2 hours.

A teacher is Truth with chalk dust in its hair, beauty with an aching back, Wisdom searching for bubble-gum, the Hope of the future with papers to grade.

A teacher must possess many abilities. She must not mind explaining for the 10th time the intricacies of two-place multiplication to the whole class, then explaining it again to the one child who wasn't listening. She must learn to judge between encouraging and pushing a child. She must sense what decisions to make and what must be made by the child. She must be steadfast without being inflexible; sympathetic without being maudlin; loving without possessing. She must live in childhood without becoming childish; to enjoy its great joys, satisfactions, its genuine delights; while understanding its griefs, irritations, embarrassments, and harassments.

A teacher must, each year, send 30 children to another teacher--proudly, lovingly, sadly--and await 30 more with ready wit, love, and eagerness.

She must do all this while worrying about how to pay the utility bills, what to have for supper, whether her baby has the chickenpox, if her lesson plans will meet the supervisor's requirements, how Mrs. Smith will take the lower grades on John's report card, where to get the extra money for summer school, and who took the dime from Susie's purse.

For this you will pay her more than the garbage man, but less than the garage mechanic; more than the grocery clerk, but less than the postman; more than the ditchdigger, but less than the truck driver.

The most amazing thing about a teacher is that she wouldn't trade jobs with anyone she knows. She likes to teach.

SAFETY PATROL

The safety patrol, which consists of seventh and eighth grade boys, must have eyes as keen as an owl to direct approximately 400 elementary students across the street each day. The boys in the picture are as follows: Stephen Swing, James Zender, Leonard Schreiner, Joseph Ward, Loren Steinhauser and James Gase.

GRADE EIGHT

SISTER MARY IONA
Elementary Principal

There are 15 pupils in grade 7, and 11 in grade 8 in our room. Sister Iona is our homeroom teacher. She says sometimes we work hard and sometimes we don't. We nearly always play hard.

At first we did not know how many times we could swing from the monkey bars without getting blisters. After many blisters, we found that we must use moderation even with good things.

GRADE FIVE

Grade five enjoyed a trip to the Toledo Museum of Art last fall; the day proved to be far too short to learn even a small amount about the endless number of exhibits.

The Christmas play, "In Old Judea," required much practice, but it was worth the effort when it was appreciated by our parents and friends.

The spring Tonette Concert proved to be a success.

Our rooms were bright with colorful Garden Exhibits showing that healthy fruits and vegetables need proper conditions just like healthy children.

We enjoyed a field trip to Tiffin where we visited the Public Library and the science department of Heidelberg. We learned much about books, card files, fossils, and rocks that day.

Special emphasis has been on reading, and we have loved the freedom of choice in our Individual Reading Program. We have "literally devoured" all the books we could find.

Our classes contributed to the Christmas program which was a big success.

We have had interesting art and shelf displays to correlate with history and geography.

GRADE THREE

Grade three did individualized reading this year for the first time and enjoyed it. Each child read his Basic reader and worked the blackboard exercises. Then he read a Science Research Associates card and did the exercises. This developed reading comprehension, reading skills and phonics skills.

Next he was free to select, from hundreds of books, the ones he was interested in and enjoyed reading.

Both rooms shared the library which gave the children a much larger selection of books.

They learned how people live and work together in our country. They visited many people in many states.

GRADE TWO

MISS EMMA WETZEL

From a class of 16 boys and 18 girls assigned to grade 2, room 3, 16 boys and 16 girls answered roll call on September 3, as Patricia Collet and Karen Thiry had moved.

Six weeks later, Judy Reinhart was transferred from Hopewell-Loudon.

In November, Michael Rowland withdrew to enroll in Hopewell-Loudon. Therefore our enrollment again stood at thirty-two.

Nine pupils have not been absent or tardy as of January.

The baseball season of 1963 proved to be a very eventful and exciting campaign. Due to the efforts of our five experienced seniors and the up and coming power of our underclassmen, the baseball team finished the outing on the winning side.

Probably the most disappointing event of the year came in our unexpected loss to Hopewell Loudon in the Seneca County tournament. Leading at three points during the see-saw battle we felt, throughout the game, that the victory would be ours. Disappointed and discouraged we finished the season with a 3-3 record.

The prospects for the 1964 campaign are bright since we have a large squad of returning lettermen. With this experienced staff and an incurrence of youthful freshmen the season should be both exciting and prosperous.

The advisors for the pep club were Mrs. Howell and Mr. Oen. Michael Tiell served as president, Phyllis Watts as secretary-treasurer, and Kathleen Gillig as reporter. The pep club made a sixteen foot sailer which was used in the entrance cheer at the county basketball tournament and also, the mitten section, consisting of pep club members, performed, helping the cheerleaders to win second place among the county cheerleaders. The club also organized stunts for pep meeting.

The National Honor Society was founded in 1921. It marks for special honor those who reach the highest level of excellence in secondary schools. Eligible students must earn a B average or 3.2 points out of a possible 4 points.

Its object is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character.

The Honor Society looks upon education as a total product measured by the four dimensions of life. Membership is more than honor; it carries with it an extraordinary responsibility and should be considered the beginning of an increased obligation, not merely the successful culmination of an effort to achieve recognition and honor.

Active membership is limited to seniors and juniors, graded by the semester. Only these members can vote and hold office. A member may be dismissed if he deliberately violates a school or civil law, or acts in a manner unbecoming to a member of the National Honor Society. Once dismissed, he is never eligible for membership.

The motto of the organization is: Noblesse Oblige; Colors, blue and gold; flower, yellow rose. The emblem is a keystone and a flaming torch.

STUDENT COUNCIL

SEATED: Michael Tiell, Arthur Scherger, Carol Wank, Carol Koby. STANDING: Steven Reinhart, Ronald Burkett, Carol Clouse, Joan Gerschutz, Mary Jane Smith.

LIBRARY CLUB

The Library Club elected Kathleen Osborn, president; Judith Mathias, vice-president; Marjorie Clouse, secretary-treasurer; Rebecca Kelbley, reporter.

The members of the Club serve as student librarians. Their duties are manifold. The librarians check all the books entering and leaving the library. They are required to keep the library books in order and also to make any necessary repairs. This year the grade school requested help from the Library Club, and each day several members helped in the elementary school library.

Their main project was the sponsorship of a Book Fair. A total of 250 paper-back books were sold, and a profit of $20 was realized. This money will be used to facilitate the library. Also, annually the Library Club takes a field trip to one of the area libraries. The purpose is to learn more about other libraries and how they operate.

The Club enjoyed the hospitality of Heidelberg College this year when it toured the library there. A guide explained all sections, including the microfilm department. Several members found material for term papers which they were permitted to check out. A guided tour of the new girls' dormitory ended a pleasant and profitable field trip.

I MUST BELIEVE

I must believe in God because ... There is no other way ... That I am able to explain ... Why I am here today ... There is no other reason for ... The mystery of me ... The mind that plans, the heart that loves ... The soul of memory ... There is no answer in a book ... Or in the changing sky ... Except that God created me ... And only He knows why ...

I must believe in God because ... I see so many signs ... That indicate my life is just ... A part of His designs ... So many signs that point the way ... To choose the right from wrong ... And how to walk in faith and hope ... And keep my courage strong.

THE LAST WORD

After many unrecorded hours of work, this year's Hi-Lite has been completed. All is now quiet; there is no further clicking of typewriters, no more rubber cement fumes.

The waste paper basket contains its last blown flash bulbs, photo scraps, and exposed photographer's papers. Rulers, pens, and pencils, with snips of paper, mark the way of those who did labor long hours on layout mats. A neat stack of receipts bear witness to the work involved in managing the finances. Of course, we find some of the many odds and ends on Mrs. Geissman's desk. Her guidance, initiative, and assistance have been priceless.

Now that the last write-up has been written, the last picture developed, and the last page planned and pasted, there remains for us, the task of clearing our desks and making room for next year's editor. No more sleepless nights are in store. Once again, assignments will be completed on time.

Through work, we have brought this book into being. It was developed and here is the conclusion. We have come to feel it is OUR book. Yet this is not true. It is YOUR book created and designed especially for you. It is a book of OUR school, YOUR school..... and we shall not forget it.

Ronnie

You are a boy with a mind of "silver," and a personality of "gold." You have been a true friend,
and I hope you always will be.

"Good luck in the future"

P.S. Be good and keep out of trouble. (If it's a girl name it after me)
With love,
Susie

Dear Devil:
I try to think
as hard as I can,
but can not think
of anything to fit
a devil like you.

wants my Latin. Good luck
